PRICE TWO CENTS

Dec. 7 Hockey Game No Hinderance to Attending Festival

Escorts Play For Dancing After Sports

Of late many people have been worrying about the fact that the Athletics Night and the first hockey game of the season are slated for the same evening. However, latest reports indicate an easy solution to the supposedly insoluble problem.

Buses Chartered
The Red and White Society are arranging for special buses to carry students from the Verdun Arena to the gym after the hockey game. Lists are being posted in all the main buildings to be signed by all those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity. There will be no extra charge other than the regular Athletics Night tickets, and student coupons will be good for the hockey game.

Varied Contests
At the gym a treat is in store for everyone no matter how varied their athletic interests are. The McGill boxing squad will perform downstairs in the B.W.F. room against the best men that city clubs can produce. The exponents of the noble art of "Grunt and groan" will engage the Williams wrestlers in several weight classes in what should prove to be excellent matches. Clarkson Tech. with their squad of former letter men should put on an excellent display of basketball against our McGill senior team. The flashy Red & White Band will be on hand. With their stirring music they hope to inspire the athletes in the performance of their heroic feats.

At the conclusion of the Athletic program the gym will be filled with the soft strains of the Montreal Escorts who are also playing at the Prom on Friday.

Co-eds Derail Ec. Professors Thought Train

Economics students were startled out of their usual lethargy yesterday afternoon when Professor Culliton was interrupted by a bevy of beautiful coeds who tripped gaily onto the Moysie Hall stage bearing placards. A smart left face and the surprised audience was greeted with the words: "Don't Forget Dec. 7."

Stumbling over his own as he tried to follow the girls making their exit on the left of the stage, Professor Culliton was still trying to extricate himself from its folds when they entered again from the other side and lined up, spelling out the words: "Athletics Night." Claps and whistles of an intensity surprising for Artsmen who traditionally have "no gall at all," greeted this second appearance. After the girls had slipped behind the curtains, a bedonair young man marched onto the stage and proceeded to address the assembly on the merits of the Athletics Night while the professor stood bewildered in the background.

The audience greeted with groans the announcement that the Lower Slobbovian squash team would be unable to appear due to their annual thaw having set in.

However, as far as your reporter could glean four intercollegiate competitions will be featured at the Athletics Night followed by a dance to the music of the "Montreal Escorts."

At last the tirade was finished and the class settled back to somnolence and cross word puzzles with a sigh. The lecture was resumed.

Candidates For R.V.C. Executive Representative To Students' Council

Barbara E. Jackson

The girl elected as R.V.C. representative to the Students' Executive Council has a threefold responsibility: to represent women students on the Council, to work on the Council in the interest of all McGill students, and to fill the office of Vice-President of the Women's Union.

If elected, I will do all I can to fulfill these responsibilities. It is impossible now to forecast all the questions which will arise and to make definite statements about them; however, there are a few points which I think worthy of consideration here.

In spite of recent efforts, the activities of the Women's Union are still comparatively unknown to many women students. I feel that as part of a programme to make students more aware of the role of the Women's Union, the Women's News Editor of The Daily should be either on the executive of the Women's Union or else attend all executive meetings.

I would advocate fullest support of the M.W.S.A.A., urging more facilities for those interested in sports but not proficient enough for major teams.

Marie M. Mottola

The position of R.V.C. Representative to the Students' Executive Council is not only one of importance, but also one of honor. It is important in that the Representative has a two-fold responsibility. In the first place, she represents the Women Undergraduates on the S.E.C., the governing board of all undergraduate activities. She must, therefore, work in close cooperation with the members of the Council who represent all the Faculties, and consequently must attempt to understand the problems of their faculties, as well as wholeheartedly foster the wishes of the students she represents.

Secondly, she is Vice-President of the Women's Union, and here her duty is, by contact with the women undergraduates, to become aware of the needs of the students and to be keenly cognizant of necessary improvements.

The Women's Union is a vital organization for the undergraduates, for it is this organization to which we owe the molding of our cultural, social, and recreational life. Since last year the Women's Union has secured new headquarters and a new lounge in R.V.C., and further plans include more facilities which will be available

Drusilla Riley

I should like first to express how much I appreciate the honour of being nominated for this position, and to thank all those who supported my nomination.

The R.V.C. representative to the Students' Executive Council must have a keen interest in the activities and concerns of the student body. Also she must be in contact with the students so as to be aware of their needs and desires. Cooperation is essential for any organization and the R.V.C. representative must work with and do her best to maintain the fine standards of both the Students' Executive Council and the Women's Union. Also she should encourage and aid greater participation in McGill life by women students, both resident and non-resident.

I appreciate the necessity of a representative who has the above qualifications, and I am willing if elected to do my best to act in the interests of the student body. If elected I shall be your representative, and will appreciate your suggestions and criticisms.

In presenting my platform to the general student body, I should like to advance a few general comments in connection with the position being contested.

It has become customary for candidates when campaigning for a campus position, to enumerate specific innovations and changes which they intend to introduce in the event of their election. It is my contention that a representative of the general student body should be first and foremost the spokesman for the group she represents, and as such would be primarily interested in advancing, fostering, and supporting the suggestions raised by the majority of the co-eds for whom she is authorized to act. Accordingly, rather than a lengthy list of "campaign promises," I offer to the co-eds of McGill a sincere desire to understand, to introduce, and to promote, to the best of my ability, their collective viewpoints and suggestions.

In closing I should like to thank all those girls, who so generously nominated me as a candidate for the position of R.V.C. Representative to the Students' Executive Council.

Refusals Few; Busy Collector At St. Johns

Late-Rink Auditorium returns yesterday brought the total over the $2,500 mark, as the campaign was extended two days beyond its original limit. Dawson returns added several hundred dollars to the total as, late last night, they were added to the sum earlier reported at the Registrar's Office.

DAWSON CANVASSEER
Dawson has set out to collect $1,600 of McGill's $10,000 objective. The Daily office there reports that an enterprising canvasser, Boyd Whitall, had collected over $250 in sums ranging from one dollar to ten.

Average donations in Montreal continued to fall below $5 and above $2, running as high as $25 in certain instances. Coverage is very high and refusals are practically negligible.

Campaign Headquarters announced the receipt last night of a $50 gift from Alpha Omicron Pi Fraternity, accompanied by a message of encouragement.

Capt. Potts Discusses Gyroscopic Principles

Captain C. B. Potts will address the Engineering Institute of Canada on Thursday, December 5, at 8.15 p.m., at 2050 Mansfield street. His subject will be: "Gyroscopes in Transportation."

His lecture will cover gyroscopic behavior, Nature's use of gyroscopic principles, explanation of various types of instruments using gyroscopes and their uses in transportation equipment. Lantern slides will also be shown.

Captain Potts attained his Master's Certificate at the age of 24. He is now Director of Production of the Marine Division of the Ontario Hughes Owens Co. Ltd.

Vets to Elect Delegates, Discuss Conference Policy

Election of delegates and discussion of policies to be presented at the forthcoming National Conference of Student Veterans will be the main item on the agenda at the general meeting of the McGill Student Veterans' Society in the Union Ballroom at 5 p.m. today.

Reports of committees will be submitted by the various chairmen. These will deal with housing, pensions, questionnaires, constitution, entertainment, finance and the recent trip to Ottawa. A statement will be made by Ernie Temple, president of UniVets, which has recently been re-established on the campus to obtain part-time employment for veterans.

TO CHOOSE DELEGATES
Len Starkey, National Conference President, will address the meeting on the coming national conference. Nomination and election of three delegates to represent the society at the conference are scheduled to be held at the meeting. Dates and place of meeting for the conference have not yet been confirmed, but it is anticipated that it will be in Toronto, December 27-29.

GRANTS
Recommendations, similar to those submitted to the cabinet ministers in Ottawa will be presented to the meeting, and the question of representations for increase in grants will be referred to the meeting for discussion and decision.

NEW MEMBERSHIP REGISTRATION
Arrangements are being made to register new members in the Union Ballroom starting at 4.30 p.m. The membership fee is a quarter, and all veterans of any Allied Force are entitled to join the society.

UNIVET PUBLICITY

Trying to run a publicity campaign on small change, UniVet is getting inflated value for its money. Montreal newspapers, and especially the Herald, have given good coverage to the UniVet leaflet raid over the City. They have also agreed to carry further stories on UniVet, space permitting.

On the feature story side, the Financial Post has a UniVet story today. The Montreal Standard will run a special story, pictures included, on Saturday.

For UniVet purposes, every veteran at McGill is a highly-specialized man or woman in some branch of knowledge, whether taking an Arts Course or majoring in atomic research. UniVet directors are going after a better class of part-time job at good paying rates.

FUNDS LOW?
Not going to the Prom? Financially embarrassed? Allergic to coarsages? Here is a sure-fire remedy.

Promising an enjoyable evening, at a considerable reduction in $$$$$, the Non-Prom Semi-Formal will offer Archie Etienne's 13-piece orchestra tomorrow night in the Union Ballroom, as an alternative to the "heavy-spending" Junior Prom.

Veterans are especially invited, and tickets may be obtained from George, Walter or Harry.

UNIVET RECEPTIONIST
As an added incentive to UniVet membership, call HA. 6405. The "voice" will knock you for a loop. UniVet receptionist Phyllis Bussell is also ready to say "hello", as well as fill your job problems. Still an American citizen, she'll make any man go South (even on a household job).

GENERAL MEETING
Another reminder. Hold 5. o'clock open for the Student Vet Society general meeting in the Union Ballroom today.

RED AND WHITE SOCIETY
All members of Team No. 9 Red and White Society are urgently requested to attend a special meeting in the Union Ballroom at 1 p.m. today to discuss plans for the forthcoming Hockey Dance on Dec. 20.

DAWSON FORMS PLAYERS CLUB

Dramatic Association Fires Enthusiasm of Students

A new dramatic association has made its appearance on the Dawson College campus. The group, called "The Dawson Players Club," is an organization destined to play a leading role in providing the college with entertainment.

About four weeks ago Mr. George Falle, English professor and Cyril Berlin, arts student, formed a plan for the development of the club and then set about turning theory into fact. A meeting of all students interested in any form of dramatic production was called; the turnout was ample and enthusiastic.

Discussion arose as to the type of play most suitable for production at Dawson, and after a good deal of controversy, members decided upon the comedy, "You Can't Take It With You." This selection, however, cannot be considered final until Mr. and Mrs. Long, dramatic instructors at McGill, who have shown great enthusiasm in being called upon to aid the school with its efforts, have sanctioned the choice.

An executive was elected for the club and is as follows: President: Cyril Berlin; Vice-President: Mrs. McLellan; Secretary - Treasurer: Stan Mann; also a committee of three, as yet not fully chosen. At a meeting of this body, held Tuesday, December 3, a constitution was drawn up for the club, and this will be read at tonight's meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Long will be present this evening to inform the club as to their decision concerning the choice of play.

By no means, however, is the membership of the club considered full. Any Dawson Student (wives of Students especially welcome) desiring to join may do so. No previous experience in any branch of Dramatic production is necessary.

Dawson Hall will be the location of the meeting. Room number will be posted in the dining hall shortly.

Rousing Win For R.V.C. Won in Debate

RVC won over Arts and Science, debating the resolution that McGill should have women cheerleaders, yesterday, in the Union Ballroom.

Before a very responsive crowd Jon Ballon, supporting the affirmative for Arts and Science, declared that the only difference between men and women, aside from certain superficial details, was an x and y chromosomal. Thus since they were practically equal, what argument could possibly refuse them the same rights as men, namely cheerleading. "Let us have democracy, men and women working together for a common victory."

Joan Koltz showed that women cheerleaders were impractical because they have not the necessary vocal power nor the gymnastic ability. Other famous universities have got along without cheerleaders quite successfully. They do not help the players along, but provide another attraction for the spectators.

Jack Crepeau in his well known oratorical style said that McGill leader in so many fields of endeavor, cannot be overshadowed in this matter. "Why, in all the colleges and universities that I have been kicked out of, they have been absolutely essential." Cheerleaders add that extra stimulus that keep the supporters cheering right up to the end.

"The only reason that men want cheerleaders is because they are frustrated," said Joy Ballon. When women make such a public spectacle of themselves they lower the dignity of women and reflect on the reputation of the University," he replied. "Would you like your

Christmas Hop In R.V.C. Gym Saturday Night

The annual Christmas Dance, sponsored by the Women's Union, will take place on Saturday, Dec. 14 from 8.30 to midnight, in the Upper Gym at R.V.C. One of the few "Sadie Hawkins" affairs on the campus, it affords coeds the opportunity to repay their favorite escorts with an enjoyable evening. However, to accommodate those men who like to take the initiative, a limited number of tickets will be made available to them.

Don Cameron's orchestra and vocalist will provide the music, and the intermission will feature various forms of entertainment, including fresh chorine lines, skits, quartets, carol singing, and Santa Claus. During the evening, refreshments will be served in the R.V.C. cafeteria where sandwiches, cakes and coffee will be available.

The gym will be decorated in the spirit of the holiday, with Christmas trees, lights, mistletoe, etc. Tickets are now on sale at $1.50 per couple, and can be bought from

Arts, Science III Exec. Has Liaison

The class executive of Third Year Arts and Science has undertaken to organize a method of personal contact with all third year students, through the medium of the Arts and Science Membership Cards. These have been filled out by all students in our Faculty. We hope that everyone will be contacted by the liaison men who have been placed in charge of teams. These teams are loosely organized groups, whose leader is responsible for keeping them informed as to all Arts and Science Undergraduate Society, meetings, elections etc.

The executive is most anxious that everyone be contacted, so is calling on all who have undertaken this work to leave us a list of the men in their groups in an envelope at the Tuck Shop. Any cards still out should also be returned as soon as possible; cards and lists should be addressed to Paul Betts or Jack Busby, and have enclosed the name of the

Negro Barred From Toronto Bridge Match

Toronto, Dec. 3.—(CUP)—Leon Beard, a Trinidad Negro, was barred from the Toronto Provincial Whist Club Tournament on Saturday because Al Sobel of New York, director of Toronto's Masters' Point Bridge tournament ruled that the American Contract Bridge League does not permit negroes participating.

Beard, who is a Trinidad Civil Servant sent here by the government for an advanced surveying course, was invited to play in the tournament by the Hart House Bridge Club of which he is a member.

In the United States there is a separate bridge organization for Negroes, said Mr. Sobel, in which white people cannot join. American regulations are such that in any master point tournament where players receive handicaps, colored people are not allowed to participate.

The president of the university's Student Administrative Council thought it was "a disgusting attitude." Since, however, another referee was unavailable, the ruling had to be accepted.

Revue Holding Rehearsal In Union Dec. 7

The Production Board of the Red and White Revue announces that there will be a rehearsal on Saturday, Dec. 7, in the Union Ballroom starting at 1 o'clock. As there will be no further auditions, anyone interested in taking part in the show are asked to come down to the Revue Office in the basement of the Union and check off their names on the list posted on the door. If anyone cannot attend the rehearsal they are to contact a member of the Production Board.

The following girls are asked to attend the rehearsal: Moira Wedderburn, Jerry MacKinnon, Ardythe Ford, Kay Slemin, Pauline Humphreys, Janet Nicholson, Mar-

PERMANENT AIR FORCE

Interviews will be granted to students interested in the R.C.A.F. on Thursday of every week between 2 and 4.30 p.m. in the University C.O.T.C. offices.

Bovey Shield Topic Exams; Contest Today

Resolved that the present system of examinations should be changed is the topic for the Bovey Shield Competition which takes place both at McGill and Dawson today.

This shield, donated by Col. Wilfred Bovey for annual competition, is for impromptu debating amongst freshmen and is limited to students in McGill for the first time. Speeches may be on either side of the topic, in English or in French, Canada's two official languages, and are limited to five minutes duration.

For the first time in its history, competition will take place at McGill and at Dawson at the same time. Winners of these eliminations

POSTER-DESIGNER WANTED

The McGill Committee of the NFCUS is urgently in need of a competent poster-designer, not necessarily a professional, to prepare several posters for Monday.

Will anyone interested please come down to the NFCUS Office in the Book Exchange, located in the basement of the McGill Union. Peter Scott, Publicity Director, will discuss terms and requirements. If there is no one there, leave a note with George of the Tuck Shop.

NFCUS Hears Reports on Conference

"A great deal of the responsibility for the success of Christmas Conference of NFCUS rests with the McGill Committee," Chairman Clem Beauchamp said last night, at the monthly open meeting. Mr. Beauchamp, who attended a meeting of the Agenda Committee in Toronto this week-end, outlined the commissions to be set up at the National Toronto Conference. He also illustrated the many benefits to be reaped by students through these activities of NFCUS.

The official delegation from McGill University will include Harold Ross, President of the S.E.C., and Mr. Beauchamp. It was announced. Contacts have also been established by N.F.C.U.S. with the Universities of Montreal and Laval.

Progress reports of the six panel sub-committees were read by the Chairman of the meeting, John A. MacDonald. A plan for each Canadian University to "adopt" a European University is being investigated by the Cultural Unity Panel. The possibilities of establishing international student exchange scholarships is also being discussed. Questionnaires are being sent to all Universities in Canada, to gain information to aid the surveys of the various panels. The completed panel reports will be presented to the membership at general meetings on Dec. 11 and 12, prior to being submitted to the National Conference.

Mr. Geoff Turner was elected Treasurer by acclamation, and Mr. Joyal will continue as Corresponding Secretary.

WORLD EVENTS

OTTAWA — Four major cabinet changes, it is learned, have been definitely decided. Justice Minister L. S. St. Laurent will quit the post to devote all his energies to External Affairs. Finance Minister J. L. Hiesley will be named new head of the Justice Department. Defence Minister Douglas Abbott will move up to the key portfolio of finance and Air Minister Colin Gibson will become head of the consolidated Defence Department (army navy and air).

Lake Success, N.Y.—V. M. Molotov, Soviet Russian Foreign Minister, cleared the way yesterday for a major advance toward world arms limitations by an unequivocal declaration that inspection and control machinery regulating arms restrictions must be free of the Big Power veto.

Mr. Molotov, in an obviously conciliatory statement to the United States Political Committee, also accepted the United States' proposal on arms limitation as a basis for discussion at this Assembly session. The committee, which had been hoping for just such a statement, quickly agreed unanimously on a 20-member sub-committee to whip into shape an acceptable resolution for action by the Assembly. Canada will have a seat on the sub-committee and possibly will be represented by L. Dana Wilgress, Ambassador to Russia.

Probes and Problems

The action on the part of the University in setting up a probe committee to study the future development of intercollegiate football has been met on all sides with feelings of hope. The general reaction first noted over the campus, and indeed to friends throughout the city, was that McGill was taking a definite step in the direction of progress in a very difficult situation.

The situation is difficult in that it has been under fire for some time, there are many views and even many degrees of views on the problems, one of which the University must take, and difficult, also, because this will probably result in some change which cannot possibly placate all the opinions on the question.

It has become fairly evident, especially since this football season ended so unfortunately for McGill, that the athletics organization cannot remain at a standstill while our rivals make changes placing them in more advantageous positions. We, too, had to decide on the best changes for McGill—remembering her academic reputation and the prestige of her teams in athletic fields. Now, the changes lie in the lap of a very competent committee, competent in standing and competent in background. Probably, the best move of all was the inclusion of student opinion in the decisions which are to be reached. There has been some cry that we are not consulted on matters which affect us very directly. Certainly the football team, its organization and its successes affect our campus strongly, and the fact that undergraduate voices will be heard assures in some measure the well reception of any solution which may be offered.

However, we cannot see the advisability of setting up a committee to study intercollegiate football alone, and ignoring similar problems which are involved in the other main sports—hockey and basketball. True, there have been no complaints aired concerning hockey, mainly because we won the championship, nor on basketball, but the principle of amateurism and of coaches is the same for all three. We are competing with the same universities in hockey and basketball as we do in football in the main, and the future development of the former two may necessitate changes similar to those anticipated in football.

Nevertheless, the committee is studying the one, and some solution in that sector will probably set the pace for the others. We feel sure that changes will be made as they must if McGill is to compete on an even footing. These changes, we hope, will centre around the basic administration of football, including the responsibilities invested in the coach and, most important, a re-arrangement of financial control.

There is no need for McGill to go to the other extreme in the question of amateurism and professionalism. The University is mainly for education and there can be no good resulting from an emphasis on sports, at the expense of academic training. Let the critics not forget why we are here. —A.K.

The Daily Meets MR. and MRS. LONG by Rex Lucas

"I suppose," said Mrs. Long, "that if you are looking for human interest in your interview, we should tell you an amusing story." Mr. Long, even after years of theater experience, modestly said, "I think that we are just ordinary individuals—so we can't supply any human interest." Far from it—Mr. and Mrs. Long, newest additions to the staff of the English Department, need no humorous story to add interest to their careers.

Mrs. Long is blond, gay, and speaks with a slight Tennessee twang; Mr. Long is tall, fair, informal, and talks with the fascinating, slow southern drawl. Mr. and Mrs. Long certainly lack the donnish scholarly manner that students seem to think is so necessary for a member of the university staff.

When he was in grade nine, Mr. Long wrote a play that won the North Carolina State Award. However, his liking for the theater dates back to the age of seven, when he directed plays in a tent made from potato sacks. Mr. Long attended the University of North Carolina, where he received his A.B. in education, and his M.A. in dramatic art. During his course, he specialized in play writing and has written ten one-act plays and three three-act plays. Two years with the army in the south Pacific interrupted his theatrical career.

Mrs. Long, like her husband, produced plays while still a child—"But I used sheets for stage drapes, not potato sacks!" Mrs. Long studied for her A.B. at the University of North Carolina, "where I met my future husband. You see, there were very few coeds in the pre-war classes," she added jokingly. Mrs. Long received her M.A. from Northwestern University, where she majored in the study of lighting and costuming.

"We have been married just six months," confided Mrs. Long. Last summer they worked together in the summer theater, with the famous "Lost Colony," a "symphonic drama" written by Paul Green.

When asked if they thought that McGill could become as renowned as the world famous Carolina Playmakers and Chapel Hill, Mrs. Long replied, "If we want drama, and we are willing to work for it, we will get it." Mr. Long said that he was amazed at the great number of people both in Montreal and at McGill who were interested in the theater.

Peculiarly enough, despite their varied theater experience and the great popularity of "Outward Bound," they have never seen this play on the stage. After watching rehearsals, they think that it will be a very good show. For this production, Mr. Long has designed the set and supervised its construction; Mrs. Long is supervising the costumes and makeup. They are looking forward to the production of "Outward Bound," as it will be their "debut" at McGill.

Pastel in Snow

Cold cotton
Lies (between wet twigs)
On the ground.

And overnight it grows
On green wires, wooden houses,
Cobbled stones.

(And when it falls
on the hair
It falls with less sound than the rain).

A small child plucks a cotton ball
And watches his playmate roll
In the wetness of the white jewel.

Time and Tide

Do we erect a memorial to men because they have died? All men die, and most die foolishly. If our soldiers fought and gave their lives for no more than "mom and blueberry pie," we can still mourn their passing, but we should remember that history will find in their sacrifice no cause for honour or an enshrined memory. If this was the cause for which they died they will have done no more than added another chapter to the shameful record of human waste. Even the dead of our defeated enemies fought for a cause greater than themselves, and would be worthy of commemoration than our own, if we could claim no more for them.

Who can say what motivated our fighting men? It might have been no more than a shallow selfishness, or nothing at all. But we should prefer to believe that the politicians were right, and that the noble ideals so easily phrased behind the lines were, in truth, the reason so many homes are now empty. If this is why widows sit at home while their children cry, then a reverent memorial is fitting and proper.

We dedicate a monument of lifeless stone to the memory of departed heroes. If this is wrong, we have done little harm. But are not thought and action better memorials than public buildings of marble shafts, and will the sins of omission be as easily overlooked?

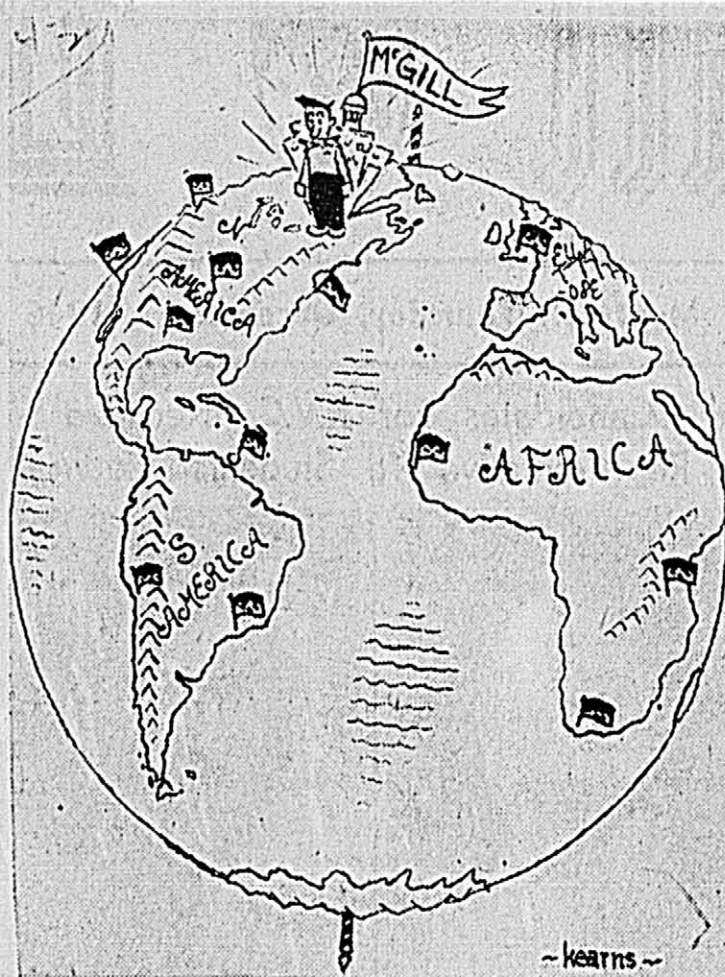

While we sit reading our papers, religions are persecuted; while we sip our cokes, men lose their liberty; and while we attend classes, the mother of the hero's son searches for work. A war memorial is a solemn thing; the cheque-book cannot be the measure of how we have kept faith.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Student Government.

Though McGill has a certain amount of good student government, there have been many occasions in the past when the governing body has interfered in student affairs. For the information of the student body I would like to enumerate three of these incidents which took place during the last two years.

1. Question of Japanese-Canadians.

In this case the governing body ruled out of order a protest of the Students' Society against the deportation of Japanese-Canadians.

2. Open Hearings for Students.

An amendment to the constitution was passed last year which provided that students called up before the governing body for any misdemeanor be permitted to call witnesses in their own defence and have the choice of an open hearing before the Students' Society. This right of public hearing was ruled out of order.

3. Closed Shop for Bands.

Last week once again the Board of Governors have taken actions which we consider as interference in student affairs.

This, when they overruled the decision of the Students' Executive Council re the hiring of Union Musicians for campus dances. Though constitutionally they have the right to do so, many feel that in the interest of student democracy, which we hold to be so important, the governing body should use these powers as sparingly as possible.

If the governing body can take such action, they could easily begin to limit what clubs may, or may not, do, and thus lead to further restriction of campus activities. It may be that the governing body holds no brief for trade unions, it does not therefore follow that they should overrule the decisions of the Students' Executive Council, which many believe is in the interests of the Students at McGill. That the Senate's decision will lead to further conflicts on this particular matter, no one will deny.

It is therefore in order that the student body begin to seriously consider the questions of the maximum freedom in student government, which all believe is an essential part of university life, where the future leaders of our country are being schooled in the ways of democratic method.

A. ARONOFF, Med. 2.

LETTER FORUM

Dear Sir,

Many members of the staff, as well as the student body, must have read Mr. Otto Forchheimer's letter, published on December 2nd, with interest and appreciation. Those who have been interested in the application of this test to educational problems, especially the problem of pre-medical education, have had a similar sense of revelation when first results of this examination were tabulated. There was the same indication of limited horizons and narrowness of field and conviction that the information would prove valuable for pre-medical education in the future.

On the other hand, some implications in Mr. Forchheimer's letter need to be corrected. The suggestion that American students are at a decided advantage in the fields of History and the Social Sciences is not borne out by experience. It is true that Canadian pre-medical students seem to have little knowledge in this field, but the same is true across the line. Comparable groups show that McGill applicants secured 354 points in Social Studies compared with a score of 393 by a pre-medical group from Eastern Liberal Arts Colleges in the United States. These figures have not been corrected for academic status. As the McGill group were probably considerably younger men, difference in the groups is more apparent than real.

The suggestion that Canadian students suffer in competition for places in Canadian medical schools is, of course, invalid. Adequate standards for determining their percentile ratings, based on Canadian experience with the examination, are available so that a Canadian student is judged not by the performance of American students, but by comparison with a group similarly prepared. Further, the graduate record score is not the sole criterion for selection, but tried and proven methods are still the chief determinants of success.

Very truly yours,
J. F. McIntosh, M.D.,
Secretary, Faculty of Medicine

Dear Sir:

Your articles of November 29 and December 2 on the Mac versus McGill basketball game were read by all Mac students and definitely not appreciated.

If your team is so irreproachable, small trivialities like dangling legs (they were men's by the way!), a small gymn, etc., would not harass them in any way.

It is alright to build up your own team to a certain extent, but why not be good sports and admit you were beaten, fairly and squarely?

Where did your team come from—the Morgue? Not that there is anything wrong with them that a little life would not cure!

If this is an example of your college spirit, we'll take Mac any day. Your loving "cousins",

MAC GIRLS.

P.S. We bet you won't print this! Scared?

(Ed. note—Perhaps if the girls will send a list of their names, we can supply them with better examples of our spirit than did the Daily story.)

Dear Sir,

Cheers to Mr. Rubin for his letter of today. He has provided a perfect example of exactly the sort of thinking which I was attacking in my letter.

When I wrote that letter I was slightly angry and unfortunately the letter showed it. However, since its publication I have had so many total strangers walk up to tell me that they agree with me that I am more encouraged. I had no intention of trying to sabotage the "effort" for the rink-auditorium, I realize how impossible that would be, for in my experience in collecting for charitable causes at McGill I know only too well that the general student body is not interested in contributing to something which will not be of personal profit to themselves, but only to humanity in general.

Mr. Rubin, and others of his point of view, doubtless neglected to read the column "Time and Tide" on the same page of Tuesday's Daily. I would like to suggest that he read it, and then re-read the last paragraph of his letter. You speak of the measly little $10,000 asked from the student body—mere bagatelle! And if you consider that the same paltry, trifling sum will feed over 800 Indian students for a month—or buy books for 5,000 European

Enthusiastic Welcome for Strauss Opera

On its first performance in Montreal, "Ariadne" an opera of Richard Strauss was given an enthusiastic reception and deservedly. Music, Libretto, Characterization, Scenic effects, combined into a memorable production.

A rich bourgeois patron of the 18th Century, decides that a tragic opera and a comedy—scheduled for the same evening, at his house—shall be presented simultaneously.

The audience awaits a grotesque mingling, perhaps a competition between the players of tragedy and comedy. But the libretto of Hugo Van Hoffmannstahl combines them so as to preserve their distinct characteristics and beauty, in true tradition of the drama.

The music follows the mood of the players—by turns pompous, gay, and tragic. Noteworthy is the dramatic use of the piano towards the end of the prologue, and the melodious first trio of the three Muses, against an idyllic background of Attic blue sky and sea. Laszlo Halasz, artistic and music director of the New York City Opera Company, conducted so as to keep the accompaniment in the background, yet indispensable in bringing out the action on the stage.

Of the actors—everyone was spirited and lifelike. The acting alone of the tragic players merited applause. Ella Fleisch as Ariadne and Virginia MacWatters as Zerbinetta gave outstanding performances. Miss Fleisch is a great tragedienne, both in voice and gesture. Miss MacWatters re-created the charming young ingenue, and sang the famous aria with ease and grace, and her usual spirit.

A second performance of the Opera will be presented tonight at His Majesty's Theatre. We hope that the New York City Opera Company will visit us again, and in the near future. M.C. K.-L. P

Score 19 Points In Last Ten Min.

Elo Paces Squad To 33-32 Victory

By SAUL H. RUBIN (Daily Staff Writer)

Sparked by George Davidon, McGill's senior hoopers scored 19 points in the last ten minutes to hand the Sir George Williams quintet a 45-32 shellacking in an exhibition tilt at the Currie Gym. last night. The game was hard-fought throughout, as these traditional college rivals gave no quarter and asked none, was unusually fast and sloppy, oftentimes resembling a rugby match.

Coach Lou Davies dressed 13 men for the contest; Bob Duford watched proceedings from the bench with a swollen mouth, while lanky Mar Goodwin kept him company, having come to a parting with his contact lenses. By far the outstanding quintet in the Red and White jerseys were Davidon, Roth, Bloom, Weisberg and Hoyle, who played all of the last twelve minutes. The Georgians blew a 25-19 half-time lead as they failed to hold a determined Red squad in the last half.

McGILL OUTCHEERED

Along with the above five, Fitzgerald turned in the outstanding game for the Redmen while Flynn, McFall, McFee and Wood shone for the Georgians. Very noticeable was the loud cheering section from Sir George Williams College compared with a 100 per cent. absence of McGill cheers—added to the fact that McGill students can enter

McGill Pucksters Open Season Saturday Night Against Carabins

The signboard beside the main entrance of the Verdun arena reads, "Intercollegiate Hockey, McGill vs. University of Montreal, Saturday, 8.00 p.m." On the other side of the door is the same thing in French for the benefit of the lead for the story in the U. of M. paper, "Le Quartier Latin."

This notice is not mere fictitious propaganda but is based on true facts, for the Redmen and the Carabins actually will cross checks at the aforementioned ice-palace, in the previously stated contest, at the time just designated.

The Verdun Auditorium, as most people would gather, is in Verdun. To be exact, it is on the corner of LaSalle Boulevard and the St. Lawrence River. There are an infinite number of ways to reach this location, a few of which shall be herein enumerated:

1. Hop into the nearest Diamond taxicab and say "Verdun Auditorium, please." Don't forget the "please" as some cabbies are very touchy and you're liable to find yourself in Lachine.

2. Climb into your imported Duesenberg exclaiming "Verdun James." This always brings results.

3. Hail a Veteran's cab and follow instructions as per section 1.

4. If all these other methods fail reorganize yourself and somehow get to the corner of Atwater and Ste. Catherine. From there take the Atwater-LaSalle bus to Church street. Get off (this is very important) and walk two blocks south to LaSalle Blvd. and the arena.

News has emanated that students athletic coupons will be honored at this affair. This means that a first class hockey game may be viewed for the exceedingly low price of nothing or whatever fraction of your athletics fee this coupon happens to represent. The clan Campbell will very much appreciate your support, and besides you won't get your money back at the end of the season for the athletics coupon book anyway, so get all the benefit possible out of it.

Dear Coeds:

Last week I had a most unusual experience. As I was hurrying to a lecture, I was buttonholed by a strange individual who muttered most incoherently, until I finally made out the words "Athletics Night!" "Oh yes," I murmured. "Our major attractions: basketball, wrestling, boxing and squash," he continued relentlessly. "Yes I know, eh?" "The whole setup is arranged so that you can wander from one sport to another." "Yes, but . . .", I tried to say. "American teams . . . lots of men." "Yes, I know all that, but . . ." "Black Watch Piper's Band to play at the basketball intermission . . ." "Wait a minute," I finally managed to say. "Everyone knows about the Athletics Night on Dec. 7th at 8.00 p.m. . . They have been talking about it for weeks!" "They have!" he mumbled. "We want it to be a big success. The $75 admission charge will only cover expenses and perhaps help to defray the cost of future Nights. They know that, don't they?" "Of course," I assured him. "With such a large coed committee, they ought to! The coeds are certainly stirring up enthusiasm!" "Well, that's good," he muttered as he turned away, "because if the coeds support it, it ought to be a bang up success." I hastily agreed and simply tore to my lecture.

NOTE BIEN

All this goes to show that the coeds are a vital part of the campus. After all didn't they bring home the bacon last weekend at the Intercollegiate swimming meet? Congratulations team!

Matches, competitions, games . . . they are all coming up. Life is getting so complicated! There is going to be a very interesting tournament at the Gym tonight, when the McGill Fencing Club play host to the Musketeers at 7.30. The Musketeer team will consist of six men and three women against an equal number of McGill fencers. The coeds who will wield the foils are Mary Lea Featherstonehaugh, June Organ and another player who is not yet named. The men are entering two teams; one foil, one epee. Following the hostilities, refreshments will be served. All this adds up to a very entertaining evening for anyone who wishes to attend.

CAGE CHATTER

At last the great day arrived! The basketball team is going to play their first match of the season in an exhibition tilt against the Y.W.C.A. on the Y.W.C.A. floor. Twelve girls will play, although this is more than the number allowed in intercollegiate competition.

BADMINTON

Currie Gym will be available for mixed Badminton as usual this evening at 7.00 p.m., but play will only go on until 9.30 when the Junior Prom interior decorating committee will take over. There will, of course, be no Badminton on Saturday night as the Athletic Festival and Dance will be taking place. Doug Grant is expected out tonight and his coaching instruction will be available to anyone interested.

Water-poloists Play Toronto; Crucial Game

Eight prominent McGill Graduates, all former players on McGill's championship water-polo teams, will act as the honorary time-keepers and scorers for the Varsity McGill Water-Polo Game next Saturday afternoon at 3.00 p.m. in the M.A.A.A. pool.

Included as the officials are Air Vice-Marshal Frank McGill, captain of McGill championship water-polo and football teams before the first war; George Hodgson, who in addition to water-polo and swimming laurels at McGill, went out to win the world's championship one hundred to the mile races at the Stockholm Olympic Games; and Munroe Bourne, McGill and Canadian championship swimmer in 1936 and Canadian Representative on the Olympic Team. Other prominent judges are: Dr. A. A. Mackay, H. E. Hersehorn, Hugo Savage and George Draper.

DO IT AGAIN

The McGill team, last year's champs, are looking forward to the Varsity game as the crucial test of the year. In the final game last year, McGill beat Varsity 4-1 in one of the toughest games of the schedule. This year, the red and white poloists have already swamped Queens' 15-2 in an exhibition match two weeks ago, and thus the unknown Blues are the question mark in McGill's effort to retain the crown.

Probable line-up for McGill's team will be: Gerry Cooper, Bob Mahon, Irwin Fineberg, Geoff Ince, Art Earle, Dan Palliel, Elliot Young, Dave Townsend, Manny Hoffman, and Arnie Brenhouse. To first eight of these men were on the previous year's team, but none of them are over-confident about Varsity. The general feeling is: "If we can stop the fast-breaking Varsity team, we have a good chance of winning."

Migos Lose 36-29 In St. Johns Game; Aggies Win Contest

Gearey, V. Taylor Set Senior Pace

Mac Intermediates Whip Dawsonites

By BOB USHER

Dawson's Senior MBL squad stepped back into league leadership contention last night with one of the most brilliant displays of offensive play yet seen in the young season, by outplaying and outclassing the much vaunted Migos by a 36-29 score, before a capacity crowd of 800 onlookers at the Orlick gym.

Johnny Gearey and Vern Taylor were the kings for the night as their crucial baskets helped put the game on ice for the Red and Blue warriors. Ron Wilson was a one man show for the losers as he accounted for an even dozen of their markers and directed the Migos floor strategy throughout the game. Outscored but not outplayed, at halftime the Dawson quintet was on the short end of a 17-15 count. The St. John's men ripped back in the second half with a display of teamwork that had the on-looking Migos gazing in wonderment.

HIGH SCORERS

Although Gearey and Taylor were high scorers, with 10 and 11 points respectively, it was difficult to pick individual stars in the game since team coordination was the strategy of the night.

The game started off in a fast and furious manner with hte Migos relying on a zone defence and jumping into a 4-0 lead on consecutive baskets by Mendy Morein. Spearheaded by Ken Taylor and aggressive Bobby Foreand, Dawson tied it up. The former incidentally played an exceptional game in tying down "most valuable man" Wilson. The visitors utilizing a smooth passing attack jumped back into the lead 10-5. Two minutes later this

Men's Swimming Tryouts Tonight For Red Team

Tonight at their regular practice the McGill swimmers will hold a tryout for all newcomers. All you swimmers who have been "burning the pool" for the last few weeks be sure to be on hand. The best of the crop will be picked for the last few weeks be sure to be on hand. The best of the crop will be picked for the "choice of all teams," the McGill Swimming Team.

Those who make the grade will be given their passes to the Y.M.C.A. where they can get further practice at their own leisure (?) and through the holidays. The others will just have to keep plugging to make the grade. No team is picked for any meeting until about a week beforehand. Those who work hard will make the grade, the loafers usually don't.

Anyway lets see all you fellows out at Schubert Bath tonight at 5 p.m., and that means you Bob Mahon, Art Earle, T. Lawrence, M. Gibson, R. Davis, Bill Crooker, Harvie Walford, Peter Walklerlin, E. Young. Yes, even the fellow from last year better turn up too; "Coop the Droop", Sleepy Elder Matchstick MacLean, Walt Mingle, Dick Fullerton, Ernie Taylor, and Bunny Duck Finchburg.

Dawson boys are always welcome of course. I hear Norm Ashton, Bill Emine and a few others are down that way. Come on, fellows, lets see how you can do.

COED BASKETBALL

Two games took place in the cage league yesterday in which section A defeated section B, 23-15; section E trounced section H, 22-6.

FENCING TOURNAMENT

The first of the inter-city fencing tournaments sponsored by the Province of Quebec Fencing Association will take place at 7.30 this evening in the B.W. & F. room of the gym between the McGill fencing club and Les Mousquetaires. Three events will be featured, Ladies Foil, Men's Foil, and Duelling Sword. All are cordially invited to attend this tournament.

Red Intermediate Squash Team To Play in U.S. Over Week end

Sports galore are taking place this weekend at home and internationally for the large university behind those Roddick Gates. Rumours are flying that the Red and Whiteners are going to be out en masse to support their favorite aggregations. However, it might well be noticed that these are false assumptions, for it would certainly be a supergaloshes surprise to the handsome, brilliant scooper writing this story to find anything looking like a McGill student rooster giving out with the old "Ra Ra Ra" for a certain one of their teams.

True enough that oodles and oodles of students will be at the Athletics Night up at the gym and crowds at the Verdun Auditorium to watch the hockeyists this Saturday, but almost nil amount will be at Cambridge, Mass., this same eve to witness the matches between the McGill Squash Team and that of Harvard, and a likely similar amount will be around to see them go against Amherst, Williams and MIT as they travel over to the latter's gym to do further battle.

CHINS UP

But are the Red and White squash-ers in any way down-hearted? No man. These boys are preparing to move across the international boarder line at some undeclosed time. Yet we feel sure that this particular manoeuvre on their part will take place before this Saturday night (for how else could they make Harvard's gym in time for the games). In their hearts is the type of spirit that won them the honours to represent their university and in their hands are the racquets that did the trick. Will they be sore at not having coeds or crowds of home town students out there? No chums. I don't think they expect it, do you?

The Red team is made up of Pete Landry who also plays at the M.A.A.A. Bob Colquhoun who learned squash in Scotland, Don Farlinger, Dave Culver and Guy McFarlane, who all first started playing at McGill. These boys are in the expert hands of Harold Martin former Canadian runner-up who is acting in the capacity of honorary mentor.

SKIERS

Any student wishing to enter zone ski competitions this winter, must have a zone card. Applications must be in to the athletics office by Thursday, Dec. 1, at the latest. 50 cents for seniors (over 18); 25 cents for juniors.

HILLEL FOUNDATION

A new series in the Thursday Lecture Forum begins this afternoon at 6 p.m., under the general heading of "Vocations in Jewish Life." Dr. J. Tuckman, Director of Jewish Vocational Service in Montreal will be the guest speaker. His topic is "Factors in Choosing a Career." Supper is available at Hillel House.

The regular meeting of the Hillel Choir will take place this evening at 7.30 p.m.

LABOR PROGRESSIVE PARTY CLUB

There will be a Party Caucus of all the L.P.P. members of the Model Parliament, Monday, December 9, at 8 p.m. in the Grill Room.

It is of the utmost importance that all members attend. In this way we will ensure the success of the Parliament, and it will give us a chance to learn the contents of the forthcoming Bill. At the same time it will give us an opportunity to rehearse our song which we will sing during the session.

C.C.F. CLUB

Robert Prevost, Quebec Provincial Secretary of the C.C.F., will speak today at 1 p.m. in the Union Music Room. Prior to his becoming Provincial Secretary last September, Mr. Prevost held the position of Provincial Organizer and has been instrumental in forming a large number of C.C.F. Clubs throughout the province.

The subject of Mr. Prevost's talk will be "Why the C.C.F. Differs From Any Other Party Organization." This should be of interest to all students interested in the democratic aspect of the C.C.F. and should provide a controversial topic of discussion for members of other Political Clubs. All students are invited and lunches may be eaten during the discussion.

N.F.C.U.S. CULTURAL PANEL

The "International group" of this panel will meet at one o'clock today in the Board Room of the Union. All members are urged to attend as this is the final meeting of the group.

THE PHILOSOPHICAL SOCIETY

A meeting of the Philosophical Society will take place in the Common Room R.V.C. on Tuesday evening, December 10, at 8.00 p.m. Mr. Tony Chipman, Fourth Years honors student in Philosophy, will read a paper entitled "The Place of Pleasure in Ethics." A cordial invitation is extended to all students.

LIBERAL CLUB

All members of the Liberal Club are reminded of the important meeting of the Club to be held on Monday, December 9th, at 1 p.m. in the Union Music Room. Final discussion will take place on the resolutions to be presented at the coming session of the Model Parliament.

A list of the members of the Cabinet will be announced shortly; it is the intention of the Club Executive to have the Cabinet members as representative as possible. Watch your Daily for any further announcements and remember the meeting on Monday at 1 p.m.

SPANISH CLUB

This afternoon's meeting of the Executive has been cancelled. The Executive will definitely meet on Monday at 1 o'clock in the Union. All decisions reached at this meeting will be final. It is therefore of utmost importance that all the members of the Executive come.

I.V.C.F. HYMN-SING

There will be a hymn-sing on Sunday evening, December 8 at 8.00 at Student House, 3445 Peel Street. After we have sung for a while Bill Steeper will speak to us, and then there will be refreshments.

All students are welcome. Remember the luncheon on Thursday, December 5, when Keith Yonge will be the speaker.

STUDENT CHAPEL SERVICE

Sunday, 8th December, the regular Student Chapel Service will be held at 7.30 p.m. in Divinity Hall, 3520 University St. The preacher on this occasion will be the Rev. Cyril Powles, Dean of Residence, Montreal Theological College, well-known graduate of McGill. Following the service, there will be an Open House at 3574 University Street, at which there will be a program of classical recordings. All students, faculty, and friends are most welcome.

DAWSON HILLEL

The Dawson College Hillel Councilorship held its first open meeting this week, in the form of a smoker, with a large attendance being recorded by officials. The programme consisted of a presentation of several moving pictures, as well as the clarinet selections of Zavy Kahn. The shorts featured were a March of Time presentation dealing with Tolerance; a picture of Palestine today; and the music of Arturo Toscanini and his NBC Symphonic Orchestra. Refreshments and cigarettes were distributed, throughout the evening.

WOMEN'S DEBATING UNION

There will be a Round Table discussion meeting of the Women's Debating Union today at 4 o'clock in the R.V.C. Common room. The topic for discussion will be the RIGHT OF THE POWERS COMPOSING THE U.N. TO USE THE VETO. It should be noted that this meeting is one of many weekly Round Table discussion groups scheduled for the coming year. All members of the Union are expected to attend and all non-members will be welcomed.

But I do not see why I myself, and many others who feel as I do, should be labelled along with those who are intent on building a monument to stupidity, greed, isolationism and ignorance.

For the past two weeks I have been trying, to get students to sign pledges to give one cent a day for the next three months to a drive for food parcels which are being sent to Europe by the McGill S.C.M. This, as any fool can plainly see, could not possibly cost anyone any more than 31c a month, to be collected monthly.

Housing Probe Undertaken

Veterans of McGill who are interested in obtaining better, or cheaper accommodation than that which they have at present are requested by the Housing Director, Mitch Bourke, to send him an application.

Name, address, telephone number, faculty, year and whether the person desires married or single quarters, or is willing to join a group to set up a co-op house, should be included in their letter to the Veterans' Housing Director. These should be forwarded at the earliest opportunity to Mitch Bourke, Housing Director, Veterans' Society, 680 Sherbrooke St. W., Montreal so that the lists can be completed and if any possibilities arise, the people in need can be notified in short order.

Advertisements are now being run in the Montreal Daily Star in an endeavour to obtain rooms and apartments for veterans at McGill in the vicinity of the university at reasonable prices.

for whom the bell tolls, McGill, it tolls for thee!

MARY HOWELL.

Dear Sir:

Today's editorial extolled the idea of holding a series of Athletics Nights throughout the winter to SUPPLEMENT hockey in extending the football spirit over the full year. You urged students to attend this Saturday's Festival and yet made no mention of the hockey game which the Festivals are supposed to supplement.

Unfortunately the conflict in dates couldn't be averted because the hockey schedule was revised after all arrangements had been made for the Athletics Night. However, since the hockey game is no mere exhibition but the beginning of the intercollegiate schedule, would it not have been more fitting to have given the intercollegiate Champions an even break?

I have made no reference as yet to the water polo contest which is also taking place on Saturday. Perhaps if you had pointed out the fact that this weekend will offer the students a wide choice of athletic fare and had left them to make their own selections there would be no room for complaint.

With women taking an ever increasing part in campus activities, the role of their only direct representative on the Council is important. If elected, I would at all times work to make the Council a vigorous, representative body of student opinion and try to express the feelings of the women students on it.

DAWSON NOMINATIONS

Nominations for the posts of Chairman of the House Committee and the Dawson Key must be in the Students' Council office by 4.00 p.m., Monday, December 9, 1946.

There will be fifteen members in the Dawson Key, with the following number of representatives from each faculty:

Two from Commerce
Six from Engineering
Seven from Arts and Science.
W. D. HILLIARD,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Dawson's Students' Council.

which will no doubt prove most confusing to our opponents. There is a forward position vacant and this is being contested for, by Molly Camp and Betty Evans, while B. J. McLeod, Dorothy Michal, Audrey Septon, Heddie Brown and Mona Macfarlane are vying for the guard position.

Because of the match, there will be no practice tonight but one on Saturday at the usual time in the R.V.C. gym.

In last Friday's game, which incidentally was a very close and exciting match, section D downed their worthy opponents, section E, by a score of 28-20. The last quarter was really worth seeing, as it was at this point that section E got going and brought up their score to the final result.

Keep up the good work. Bye for now, was cut down to a 10-9 count. Then at the 16 minute mark, it was tied up at 13 all. Strolovitch pushed the Migos ahead ahead 17-13 and Gearey brought Dawson within two points at halftime by sinking two free throws.

CHANGED GAME

The second half told another story with the Migos getting off to a short-lived lead paced by Red Wilson, who netted 7 points in a row. His baskets were interspersed by successful attempts on the part of Vern Taylor, Forcand, and Goldbloom, to make the scoreboard show 24-20 in favor of the visitors at the 11 minute mark.

Two minutes later the Dawsonites' high pressure play paid off as Vern Taylor and Johnny Taylor each sank 2 baskets to give the home team a lead they never lost. From the referee's timeout onwards, the St. Johns basketballers put on one of the most aggressive and spirited displays seen on the Orlick floor this year. Vern Taylor sank 6 points in a row and Johnny Gearey pulled the game out of the Migos' hands with 2 successive baskets. Believe it or not, Final Score: Dawson 36, Migos 29.

will compete in the near future for the shield itself.

The McGill eliminations will take place in the Union Music Room at 5 p.m. this evening with Isadore Rosenfeld acting as chairman. Max Bernfeld, K.C., is the only judge announced to date.

At Dawson arrangements are under the supervision of Raymond Cames, president of the Debating Society there. Eliminations will take place at 8 p.m. in Room 24 of Dawson Hall with Rosenfeld once more acting as chairman. Judges here are not announced.

The lists will remain posted till 4 p.m. and any late-comers who desire to enter the competition may sign the lists today. Many of McGill's leading debaters are the products of the Bovey competition. Examples are Bill Archer, Gerry Charness and Roland Lapraire.

sister to be seen acting in such a way?" Jon Ballon was asked "To this, in his rebuttal, saying that he thought his sister would make an excellent cheerleader.

After a short question period, the judges announced their decision in favour of the negative — RVC — because they gave the most points; stating however Arts and Science had done an excellent job with their humour. The best speaker for the day was Joan Koltz, publicity director for the Women's Debating Union. This was the last of the interfaculty debates this year.

gratis while Georgian rooters have to pay admission—poor show indeed.

The game started at a very fast clip with Bloom opening the scoring. The ball then proceeded back and forth down the floor with the scoring lead see-sawing between the two squads. Davidson's shooting stood out as did the aggressiveness of Fitzgerald for McGill while Flynn was the main cog in the Maroon and Gold machine.

REDMEN SLOPPY

In this first half McGill showed very poorly, especially in their handling of the ball and it was due to this rather than to their own good playing that the Georgians amassed a 25-19 half-time lead.

The Red and White squad that came out for the second half was practically a different team and right from the start of this half it was evident that the Georgians' lead would not last. Mickey Davine swished the cordage to start things off and from then on things began to really hum. Vic Curran potted two nice baskets but the Sir George contingent came right back to pile up a 32-26 lead.

With twelve minutes to go the outlook was none too bright for the Redmen; then on the floor came Davidson, Roth, Bloom, Weisberg and Hoyle and from here on the Georgians were held scoreless while McGill racked up 19 solid counters to run away with the contest.

Dawson effort is registering. ASK INDIVIDUAL EFFORT. A good many undergraduates handed in their donations yesterday. Chairman Bud Trivett, urged last night that anyone not yet contacted should realize that some snag may have arisen and bring the money personally so as to speed coverage. Difficulties of contacting prospects, since canvassers have relatively few real opportunities in the day, has already necessitated extension of the campaign.

It is estimated that total reported coverage will not reach truly indicative proportions until the end of Friday's efforts.

DAWSON HOPEFUL

Dawson officials hope to surpass their objective with the increased number of staff, and more publicity is being brought to the fore as the deadline approaches. The sole feature lacking at Dawson in this campaign, despite organizers' efforts, has been the lack of ribbons for contributors, as at McGill. Contributions will be accepted in Building 27, Room 6 the remainder of the week.

Joy McKay, or any of the following committee members: Marion MacGibbon, Joan Peterson, Martha Morgan, Shirley McGregor, Gwen Williams, Kay Draper, or Audrey Wirth.

NOTICE.

Will the student who made inquiries about the personality analysis notice in Tuesday's Daily please leave name and phone number with Walter in the Arts Building. Address: Hal Miller, BA. 2.
